

What is Operation 36/Imel Group Golf Academy

Operation 36 is a golf development program run by golf professionals around the world. Operation 36 is for all ages. Junior golfers are the largest segment of participants in the programs, followed by women. Operation 36 is a learning, training and playing program. There are the 3 foundations that it takes to become a golfer. Operation 36 runs by semesters and has a structured curriculum. There are 6 levels of curriculum, everyone starts at level orange and 9 levels of playing, everyone starts at 25 yards. Operation 36 has a mobile app to help guide everyone through the program. The program also has an optional bag tag for the juniors to help track their progress.

How Does It Work

Each week of the semester, students meet for one hour to learn and train their skill. Typically, every other week matches will be held to develop playing skills. The curriculum is located on the mobile app under the learn tab. The videos have learning principals that aid in learning the curriculum skills. The app contains schedules of the curriculum and matches for the semester. Once a student demonstrates to the coach that they have mastered the skill, a sticker(badge) is awarded to the student. There are 12 curriculum subjects in each level. 4 of the subjects are self-study. Training is done in class via gamification. (golf games) This is proven to be the best way to learn and keeps the students attention. During the semester, students can earn skill point chips for exhibiting skill during class. The skill point chips can be redeemed at season ending parties or matches.

Skill Curriculum: Putting, Chipping, Pitching, Bunkers, Full Swing Irons, Driving, Green Reading, Fitness, Mastery, Honor, Work Ethic and Performance.

Skill Point Chips can be redeemed by:

Passing yardages

Posting training sessions on the mobile(Work Ethic)

Watching the current week curriculum video

Playing 9 holes

Winning a game in class

Displaying knowledge of what the student has learned in class. (ie Fixing a ball)

Exhibiting good behavior during class. (putting the word of the week into practice)
